Chameleons do not actually change their colours to match their surroundings. They change colour based on how they are feeling.

Like a mood ring!

The chameleon can look in two different directions at once because they move their eyes independently.

Their tongue can be twice their body length and they can fire it out from 0 to 60 mph in a hundredth of a second.

Blink and you will miss it!

Chameleon Feet

Chameleons are arboreal which means they live in trees. To help them climb they have special feet. They have four toes on their front feet, two on one side and two on the other fused together. On the back they have two toes one side and three toes on the other.
